LORI JO STANFIELD

While never seeking to be up front and fine with little to no recognition, Lori Jo Stanfield served Manhattan Christian College faithfully and extremely well for 25 years. Her dedication to making MCC a better place was clear through her desire to keep the finances in order and always willing to help make sure students could stay in school.

Lori Jo was always willing to meet with students, faculty and staff. She was great about listening to some wild ideas and helping to think through the logistics to see if these were feasible. She could even be caught helping out with a maintenance project or two. Her willingness to make MCC a better place was truly on the forefront of her mind.

While it may have been hard to catch a picture of Lori Jo or to get her up in front of a crowd, it was never difficult to catch her caring about the individuals that walked the halls of MCC. She definiitely cared for people and worked as if she was working for the Lord and not men. There are things that she did for the college that some may never know but we do know is the college is extremely thankful for her years of service and dedication to execellence. Thank you Lori Jo.

MARY ANN BUHLER

Mary Ann Buhler served as the Director of Library Services in the Manhattan Christian College library since 2002. Before that she was in the Music Department. She earned her Master of Library Science (MLS) degree from Emporia State University and a Bachelor of Music in Piano Performance from Kansas State University. In addition to her responsibilities in the library, since 1994 she has been the accompanist and coordinator of the Flint Hills Masterworks Chorale, a community choir sponsored by Manhattan Christian College.

Mary Ann served the college faithfully and was intricate part in getting the library moved from Coffin hall to Joliffe hall. Helping individuals in the library came easy to Mary Ann. Mary Ann always made sure the library had the resources the constituents needed for their research. Thank you Mary Ann for for years of service.

WELCOME WEEKEND

Nathan Talarico celebrates knocking down two pins.

The theme for the school year was 'JOY.' As students walked throughout the campus meeting and greeting others, you could tell that there would be much joy this year. There wasn't a face without a smile. There were hugs, handshakes, laughs and plenty of memories made through the course of the weekend. Starting the weekend off right. MCC held a family worship celebration to make everyone feel welcomed, and to celebrate our Lord together. The next day the annual faculty/staff vs. student games were held in the HAC! During that the two had to face off in a very intense, memorable dodgeball game followed by a prayer. On the third day of Welcome Weekend the students had orientation to attend, but all of their minds weren't focused on that...they were focused on the bonfire that night! Another great opportunity to make memories and life long friends, while getting to meet new people! All in all, welcome weekend was the perfect event for new students as well as students who just transferred in from a different college. It was also a great weekend for the returning students to reconnect with their friends from the year before and to also meet the incoming students. The purpose of Welcome Weekend is so new students get the chance to meet the professors, learn about their fellow students and be familiar with campus.

BARN PARTY

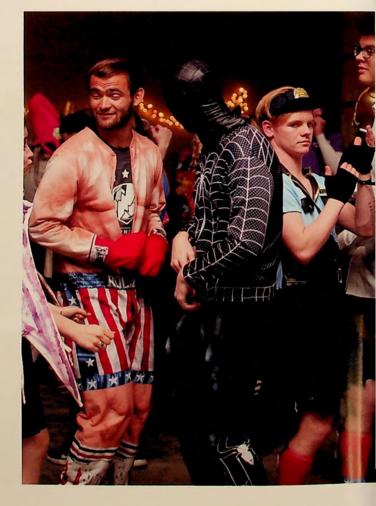

The Force is strong with Fred Douglas!

Barn Party is a long lasting MCC tradition and the party in October 2018 was no exception to this rule. While the event has had several venues throughout MCC's history, it still allows students to dress up, enjoy some yummy seasonal treats and to dance the night away. This year Barn Party was held at Britt's Farms. Barn Party is a great time in the fall semester for students to get off campus and fellowship together while creating memories that will last a life time. Whether students dress up to imitate an adored professor or use their creative powers to make a simple statement there is something for everyone at Barn Party. This year's best male was Mo Manes who was dressed up as Rick Wright. Best female went to Brooklyn Sherman who was a Single Pringle.

WINTER BANQUET

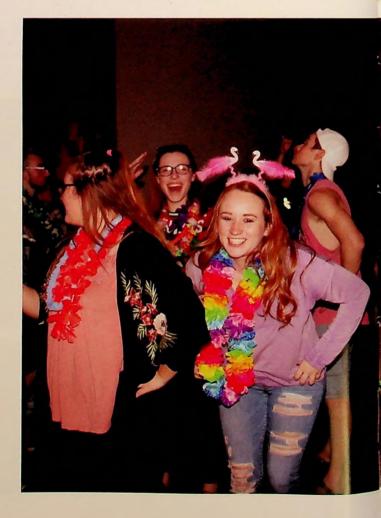

DeShawn Ortmeier does the limbo.

Winter banquet is a time for the MCC family to get together before the semester ends and celebrate the Christmas season. This year it was held at the K-State main ballroom in the student union. Every year there is a new theme for the banquet. Hawaiian was the theme for this years banquet. At the banquet the students and staff participated in games such as limbo and lip syncing battles. Prizes were awarded to the winner of the games. Food was served and then the dance floor opened for everyone to enjoy. A beach photo booth helped the students and staff with funny pictures and memories. Freshman Aaron Taylor said, "Winter banquet was a wonderful time to get out with some friends and enjoy the night. I like the Hawaiian theme and it was actually fun". Junior Shelby Jennings said, "Her favorite part was the different mock tails they had for them to try and when they danced the night away. Senior Deshawn Ortmeier said, "it was a cool senior experience for his first time at a winter banquet.

CHRISTMAS EVENTS

3FS decorates with a slightly darker side of Christmas.

Christmas time in the Residence Halls is always a memorable time. The students are eager to be done with classes, but they still always enjoy decorating their homes away from home. Each suite and floor creates a Christmas atmosphere and competes against each other. Students, faculty and staff all partake in the voting and eagerly await the announcement from the Student Development Office. The winning suite and floor wins a party for their suite and floor mates. This years winning suite was Katherine Lundy's who created a live snow globe. The winning floor was 3FN. Dionne Timken's floor created the Who Killed Santa.

KD: SPRING BREAK

Each spring break the students at Manhattan Christian College go a missions trip called Kerusso Dayz. The past several years we have been building a relationship with an organization in Puerto Penasco, Mexico called i6eight. i6eight involves their church members in building a better community and uses American churches to help in this effort as well.

Each year the team does a construction project as well as an event for children in the community where they are working. Each year provides different challenges for the team but they always return learning from the experiences.

This year was no exception. The team worked hard on the construction site and hard to work together as a team. They had many different experiences and were able to recall many memories as well as life changing moments. When asked about the trip the leaders stated it was definitely different than other trips we have been on but we can see that were able to honor God with our time.

Team leader, Brooklyn Sherman, uses her muscles to help pour the floor of the foundation.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Woman's World is a non-denominational overnight event that helps women understand their significance in God's eyes. The program includes practical seminars, a dynamic keynote speaker, buffet meals, times of worship, and lots of other surprises. This year's theme of "Everyday Heroes" was a celebration of how the simple things we do everyday make a difference and how lifestyle evangelism benefits the Kingdom of God. Amberly Neese, Chief Experience Officer at United Christian Youth Camp in Prescott, Arizona, was the keynote speaker. It was a fun and inspirational break from the winter months for all ages. Woman's World has been a ministry of Manhattan Christian College since 1978. This year Woman's World welcomed 576 women from around the United States for a weekend of fun, friends, and fellowship.

SKIP DAY

Skip Day! Manhattan Christian College takes a day in the Spring each year to skip classes and make memories. The Campus Program Council puts the event together and invites the faculty, staff and students to come and partake in the days events.

The day started off with worship and a devotion, then moved into a pancake breakfast and signing up for tournaments such as 3 on 3 basketball, and volleyball. Faculty and staff versus the students in kickball has been a recent tradition that seems to be a fan favorite.

The day truly is what Manhattan Christian College is all about, making friends that will last a lifetime and making memories with them. The whole day is not structured, plenty of free time to go and hang out and just catch up on life with all those friends before the semester ends and summer begins.

SPRING BANQUET

Andrew Matthews

Spring Banquet 2019 was held on Saturday, April 6th in Howie's Activity Center. The CPC team did a great job decorating our gym into a beautiful sky/spring theme banquet. They had balloons floating above us and cloud decorations to make us feel like we were up in the sky. In the middle of the dance floor there was a large cluster of balloons that held up a basket, like the movie "Up." For the meal we had a variety of pastas, sauces, and meat that we could choose from, along with salad, bread sticks, and cookies. We also could choose from a variety of fun mocktails! The dinner was held in the front half of the gym with nicely decorated tables. They had very pretty fresh flower centerpieces. Following the meal, we kept our tradition of announcing and seeing the videos of the winners for the Frank Nunez Servant's Heart Award, President's Award, and the Young Thunder Award. We then watched the videos from our annual video contest. We had three applicants and the video "Christian Single" was the one that won. After that, we finished the night out with dancing and having fun with our friends. Overall, Spring Banquet 2019 was great! It gave us all memories of laughter and fun with our MCC family! It will be something that we all can look back on and remember the unique experience. Like the fact that it was pouring rain for most of the night, and we could hear thunder above the sound of the music. Everything that we experienced will be remembered throughout the rest of our time at MCC and for our Seniors, it will be remembered each time they reminisce about their MCC days!

STUDENT

Student Government is one of the best ways for students to get involved on campus. It's more than just parties and hanging out. It's about being a voice for the entire student body. This group of students has the unique opportunity to lead their fellow peers and take their peers concern to administration and work on changing things on campus.

Stu Gov is definitely hard work and not for everyone but the students that dare to volunteer and put in the time are rewarded for their efforts. They gain valuable skills that will serve them well past their time at Manhattan Christian College. They will have learned how to work as a team, learn the art of confrontation as well the feeling of successfully planning an executing events.

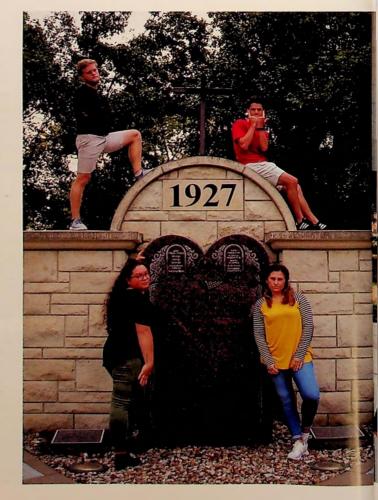

These events are great for campus and really help to bring the community to Manhattan Christian College together. These events range from fasting, worship, class dinners, hangouts and others to numerous to name. They all appeal to the college age and do well to create a community here on campus.

Student Needs: Cole Griffin, Nikki Williamson, Nicole Santillo, Zach Ridgway.

Campus Program Council: Phillip Archuleta, Cassie Miller, Katherine Lundy, Nathan Talarico.

Junior Class: Preston Seeger, Shelby Jennings, Brendan Tener, Reggie Johannes.

Executive team: Vice President Dionne Timken, Secretary Mary Frances McNellis, Treasure Brooklyn Sherman, President Cole Kedney.

INSTITUTIONAL ADVANCEMENT

Alumni Natalie Holdren was honored with the distinguished alumni award at the Vision 360 Banquet.

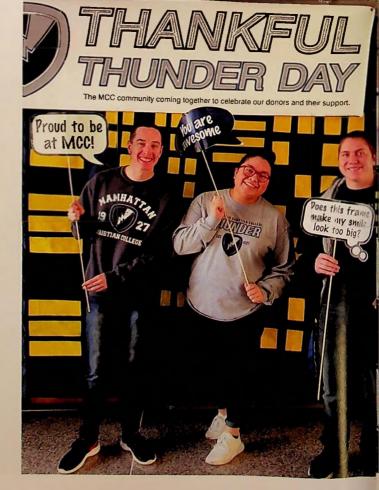

The Office of Institutional Advancement is responsible for many events on campus as well as off campus and for fundraising campaigns. The events that they provide are meant to encourage a relationship between MCC and a wide range of constituents. Some of the larger events that IA is responsible for include: Leadership Breakfast, Golf Classic, Women's World, and Vision 360.

While the planning of these events comes out of the Institutional Advancement Office, the events require much assistance for all of the campus. Student volunteers play a vital role in the execution of these events. Students are able to get a glimpse of what ministry looks like, while connecting with friends of the college.

Institutional Advancement provides more than just events. They also organize and fill pulpit supply preaching positions. Students have the opportunity to go out and practice their skills in ministry as well as assisting churches in the area.

Alumni events both in Manhattan and off campus have increased in the last couple of years. These events allow alumni of the college to connect with Genae Denver(Alumni Director), Kevin Ingram(President), other faculty/staff and a few current students to hear how things are going at the college.

ADMISSIONS

The Admissions Department at MCC is not only responsible for the majority of recruitment for campus, they also put on and assist with campus events that help recruit the next generation of MCC student. The two biggest events are Oasis and Timothy days. These event could not go on without student volunteers. This is a great way for our students to get involved and help in assisting the incoming class.

Oasis is a conference for middle schoolers and high schoolers that utilizes MCC for a meal and recreational activities. The middle and high school students are treated to the best MCC has to offer, our students. The student volunteers along with Admissions put in a lot of hardwork both prior to and during the weekend of Oasis.

Timothy Days is a scholarship event and the biggest scholarship that MCC has to offer. This is a very exciting weekend or two on campus. As high as 80 percent of the high school seniors that attend this event will be on campus the next year and it is a great weekend to get to know them. Admissions collects nominations and lines up the interviewer and of course recruit student volunteers to help out with the entire weekend.

The Admissions team is a vibrant department on campus that puts in lots of energy to campus.

Abe Walker, Dirk Andrade, Libby Rekas, Zach Price, Brody Lumpkins, Emma Bathurst, Zach Breshears and Brogran Holdren share lunch together during Oasis.

ACADEMICS

Zach Ridgeway heads to the library to get his homework done

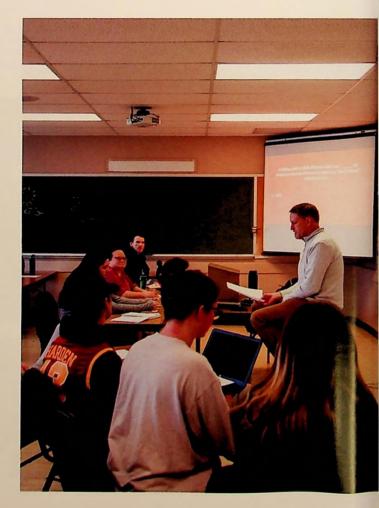

The Academic department is the heartbeat of the college. They definitely are more than just educators. They are life mentors, resume consultants and of course professors. They assist students as they go through their educational journey while at MCC.

During class time the professors at MCC provide top notch instruction as well as developing critical thinking skills within their students. Professors also provide guidance in what life might look like outside of college. They are a great resource for networking for real jobs once the education journey is complete at MCC.

The professors also take extra time in getting to know students outside of the classroom. It is not uncommon to see professor eating lunch, getting coffee or just talking with students about everything from next steps on a class project to what ministry they should be looking for after graduation.

Community is the word most often brought up in conversations concerning MCC and the Academic department is no exception. They continue add to and develop the community on campus.

New youth ministry professor Jason Johnson delivers some exciting wisdom to his students.

Hanah Park and Emily Wilson make good use of the library.

Kayla Henry and Caleb Romm work on a group project during class time.

Rachel McPherson uses the faculty commons to work on her studies.

Jacob Modra likes the quietness of the library to get his work done.

Dylan Meyer and Paden Goucher soak up a lecture.

Dr. Delort helps students in a group activity.

Tess Eblin, Casey McMillen and Taylor Moody appreciate the time Dr. Henry takes to invest in them.

STUDENT DEVELOPMENT

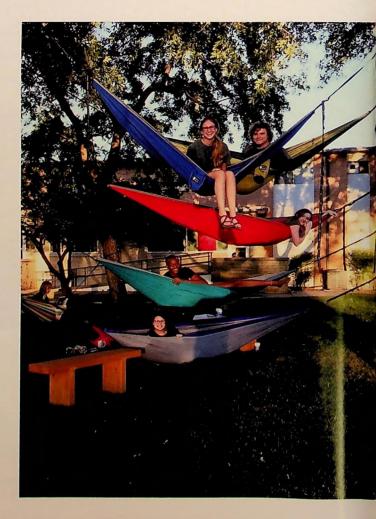

Student Development stays busy year round making sure students have what they need in the classroom, in the residence halls and on campus. From training RA's, prepping residence halls, hosting watch parties and providing everyday support for our student body. Student Development does it's best to educate, equip and enrich students lives.

Encouraging our students to lead from the time they step on campus is one of the biggest tasks that Student Development takes on. We have the best and the brightest and really want our students to live that fact out. They are many opprotunities for our students to get involved in on campus and off campus.

Student Government and working with Admissions are some of the best opprotunites for our students to get involved on campus with multiple events each year, students have the opportunity to be involved at different stages of each event.

Student Development exists to provide a life changing experience for our students while supporting the colleges mission of educating, equipping and enriching christian leaders.

Elly Johnson, Abe Walker, Katherine Petersma, Jordan Davis, and Nicole Santillo enjoy a beautiful day in the courtyard.

Logan LaRue, Preston Seeger, and Kord Pearson makes the rounds during the activities fair. Retention and Learning Skills Coordinator, Teri Awbrey, volunteers during Praise Fest. Zach Price and his small group decorate gingerbread houses.

Jordan Davis welcomes Timothy Days participant Brandon Pitt.

John Woods, Kole Johnston, and Seth Throckmorton help sell MCC apparel in the Tunder Zone.

CHAPEL

Every Thursday morning the students, faculty and staff take time from the busyness of the day to come together for chapel. It is a time of worship, prayer, and looking into God's word. These services are planned by the students and lead by them as well.

This truly is a highlight of each week at Manhattan Christian College. The opportunity to come together and worship as one body is an experience unlike any other college a student could attend. Chapel not only affords students the opportunity to hear some fantastic sermons but allows them to connect with their peers, faculty that teaches them throughout the week when discussing different aspects of chapel.

Chapel is also a time to put some wheels on the aspects of ministry students have been learning in the classroom. They have the opportunity to see what it is like to work as a team and watch a service come together and impact others around them. They also get to experience the magnitude of leading others into the throne room to worship the almighty Creator.

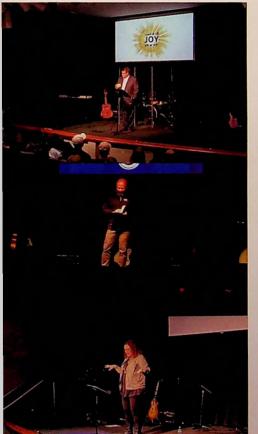

Zach Ridgway, Eric Wold and Janel Dormire lead worship during chapel.

Kevin Ingram gives the convocation message.

Dr. Dave Henry preaches the Word during a chapel service.

Amberly Neese gives students, faculty and staff a pre-view of Woman's World during chapel.

Justyn Leslie gives a sermon during class in the chapel, that someday will be preached in chapel.

Art Matheny gives a monologue as one of the shepherds that saw the angels in the field the night Christ was born.

KENOYER HALL

Kenoyer Hall is the central hub for the female population of campus. It is full of life, excitement, and many live changing moments. While most people see it as just another residence hall Manhattan Christian College sees this as a home for the ladies as well as an extended place to continue learning.

Many events go on and include spiritual development as well as developing responsibility, character, and friendships. Devotions are held every Monday night and include worship and a devotional message.

Of course there is plenty of opportunity to connect with classmates and work on homework together. Late nights of studying, watching movies, and working on projects can all be witnessed in the suites on any given night. But it is not all work and studying in the residence halls!

Let's not forget study breaks of mattress sliding down the stairs. Or what about a late night run to Taco Bell or McDonalds to fuel up for more late night studying or mattress sliding!

Katrina Waters and Trisha Fassnacht use their time in Kenoyer to build relationships and work on homework.

JOHNSON HALL

Johnson Hall is the men's residence hall at Manhattan Christian College. The bonds of brotherhood that are formed there are ones that will last a lifetime. They are formed around dorm devos, floor functions, the occasional study session and just hanging out.

Johnson hall is not the newest building on campus but it is home to these gentlemen that are learning, growing and developing into the top leaders of the nation. The young men in this hall have the opportunity to learn from each other, their RA and the supervisors. Johnson Hall has proved to be a source of continual growth as young men learn to lead through all stages of life.

The experienced gained by living, studying and surviving Johnson hall can not be replaced. When it comes right down to it, living in Johnson is more than just where someone slept, ate and showered, it is about the building of a community that fosters great relationships at Manhattan Christian College.

Phillip Archuleta, Corban Romm, Jackie Jones, Conor O'Boyle, Nick Bland, Drew Will, and Zach Price get in some team building to start the year off right.

Matthew Wendte, Noah Hoskins, Jacob Modra, Kobe Hula, Chris Blankenship, Zach Ridgway, Abe Walker, Jordan Davis, Johnnie Talarico, Jeremy Fritz and Dionne Timken have a floor meeting after monday night devos.

Johnson Hall Decorated for Christmas.

Nick Bland, Conor O'Boyle, Drew Will, Brody Lumpkins and Jackie Jones all congratulate Zach Price on graduating from MCC.

SPIRITUAL LIFE

Spiritual life at Manhattan Christian College typically just means daily life. However, this does not happen by accident and it is avoidable if you are not intentional about having a spiritual life or being active in your spiritual life. Opportunities are all over campus to practice spiritual disciplines.

When we bring in a new class of students at Manhattan Christian College we begin right then by having parents pray over their students and students pray over their parents. This definitely sets a tone fore the year. It makes prayer a normal and real thing on campus.

Students have the opportunities to get involved in small groups both on and off campus. There are chapels weekly and multiple worship nights throughout the semesters as well. Various student groups offer different opportunities for pray gatherings and fasting as well.

The spiritual life of campus is one that is continually growing and students get out of it what they are willing to put into it.

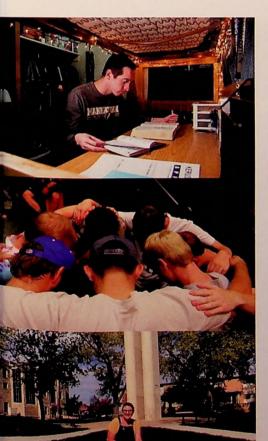

Jackie Jones, Marshall Bennet and his mother pray during Welcome Weekend.

Zach Price takes time to study God's word for his own personal time. \\

The men on campus come together to pray for one another.

Nicole Santillo takes some time to enjoy the sunshine and take in some reading.

Abe Walker, Elly Johnson, Katherine Petersma, Jordan Davis, Nicole Santillo, and Mattea Black enjoy time hammocking together.

CAMP TEAMS

One way that our students are able to serve the Lord, represent the college, and get more experience is to serve on camp teams. Camp teams are a group of students that go to various camps around the surrounding states and help with students and different aspects of camp. They are then afforded the opportunity to share about MCC to those students and why they should attend the best college in the world.

Camp Teams are more than just camps and high schoolers all summer. It is a building of friendships and networking that will last long past summer. These men and women spend countless hours driving, working with students, and generally being the hands and feet of Jesus.

Camp Teams are a vital part making a name for Manhattan Christian College. They allow future students to see what we have to offer as a college but also how they could be educated. Camp teams are really one of the best ways to represent the college to the masses.

They teams spend time training after classes are out for the summer and here they are praying before a meal at a host home for dinner.

Jordan Lewis, Davinna Farney, Haleigh Hipscher, and Darby Cook enjoy some dinner and conversation.

Although their season didn't end how they all wanted it to end, both players and coaches were positive and never looked over the high points and the day to day improvements. The Thunder ended their season 14-11 with a second place finish in the MCCC and a tough first round exit in the regional tournament.

Captains Mary Francis McNellis and Brooklyn Sherman shared that the team struggled with many injuries. Concussions were a big problem for the team this year. Brooklyn Sherman put it this way, "We had to shuffle some girls around to different positions, but we worked really hard". Despite the injuries and tough tournament exit, the team was just that, a team. They played for each other and that was the high point for most of the girls. When asked what happened during the season senior libero Mary Francis. girls. When asked what happened during the season senior libero Mary Francis McNellis responded with, "This year, we emphasized playing for each other instead of against each other and we grew so much more off and on the court, which was what I really hoped for, for senior year."

Coach Lauren Sanders said, "Our overall goal was to get back to Nationals. We had a heartbreaking loss at regionals that caused that not to happen. We also had a team goal of serving each other with selfless attitude and consistency throughout the season and that goal was met every day by how the team worked hard and everyone was about the success of the team and not just themselves."

Sarah Ward is laser focused as she moves the ball down the field.

At the start of the season the Women's Soccer team started with about six players. The coaches and the players were asking every glrl on campus if they wanted to join. Bryan Sammons the head coach said, "I even went to the glrls dorm devo to ask the girls to just come to a practice to watch or just try it out". The season started out a little rough but they eventually got enough players by asking their roommates.

The team had four returning players. Two of the those players were the captains Davinna Farney and Sarah Ward. Davinna Farney said, "My favorite memory is when we worked so hard against Nebraska Christian and came out with a win, and that my sister got to score the winning golden goal." Sarah Ward said, "My favorite part of the season is when my best friend Peyton ran right into the goal post playing goalie during the Alumni game." The captains worked hard to keep the team going this year even though they thought there wasn't going to be one.

they thought there wasn't going to be one.

Through the practices, van rides, and games the women's soccer team created stronger relationships on and off the field. They learned how to communicate on the field even though most had never played before. And hung out after practices when they would go back to the CC and eat together. Even though they didn't have the best record they had the best time hanging out together.

The men's soccer team was lead Dr. Rick Wright and Raul Wilson. These two gentlemen put together a group of young men and prepared them the best they knew how in order to make a run to the National tournament. Competition was tough throughout the season and the NAIA opponents definitely gave the thunder opportunities to learn what they could play like. While efforts to make the National tournament ultimately fell short, goals were still accomplished and achievements that the team was striving for were met.

As with any organization associated with Manhattan Christian College, the men's soccer team grew as Christian men. Through practices, roadtrips, tough games and sweet victories the Thunder men were able grow closer to our savior. They learned their value as men both on and off the playing field.

They also created and forged bonds that will last a lifetime. These young men were part of team that when they get together they will remember the good times and the times that helped to form them into the men they are today.

Alexis Huitron drives the ball down court and past her defender.

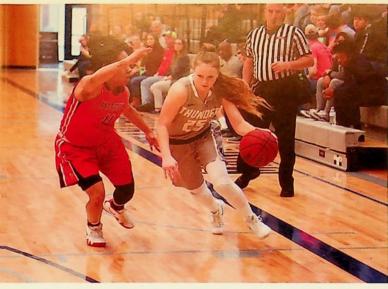

The Thunder Women's basketball team was a team in transition. They had some good foundations with some returning players and built on those with the new players. With a familiar face as their new head coach, Kelvin Rask, things looked to be real bright for the Thunder ladies. While the season itself was not all that the team hoped for they made a strong showing and worked through the adversity of college athletics.

While the main goals of winning games and tournaments was not reached by the team, they were able to enjoy themselves and play the sport that they love. It is said that good things do not come easy, and being a college student athlete definitely does not come easy but these ladies made it look pretty easy.

Chelvin Webb looks for the easy bucket against Dallas.

Nate Awbrey gets the score plus the foul during the Dallas game.

The men's basketball season had many highs and lows to it that caused the team to grow together and lock down some key victories. One of the biggest highlights of the season would come late in the season during the Conference tournament with 500 wins for coach Shawn Condra. The team and the whole campus was excited for coach to say the least.

They would later go on to have a strong showing in the regional tournament but fall short of a regional championship. Falling short may have ended the season but not the desire of these young men to come back stronger for next season. These men did start showing chemistry in their play and made the season enjoyable to watch.

"I was blessed with a lot of great players that made me look good as a coach, however the relationships that I was able to develop with so many players and students are more important than any success that we had." Shawn Condra

Five hundred wins is definitely nothing to shrug off but coach Condra definitely has an eye for more than just basketball. Coach Shawn Condra's mission was to build relationships that would last long after college and the result was overwhelming success and a side benefit was winning a whole lot of basketball games. This definitely was a team effort from his family as well. They were a huge support to make sure his mission was a success. Thank you Coach Condra for everything you have given Manhatan Christian College.

Shawn celebrates with two of his four daughters, Quinn and Piper, and his wife Wendy Condra.

Alex Mitura, Gabe Awbrey, Logan LaRue, Garrett Renner, Jordan Davis, Nate Awbrey, and Chelvin Webb celebrate with Coach Condra.

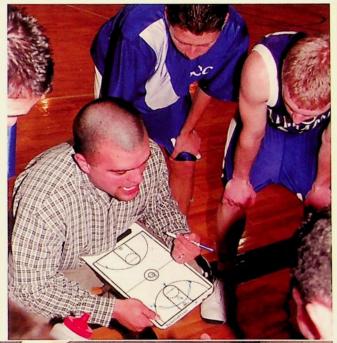

Shawn Condra's first team he coached. 1994-1995 school year.

"Coach has an incredible amount of basketball knowledge and his accolades on the hardwood speak for themselves, but his character and faith are what set him apart and truly made my time playing for him special."

2009 Men's Basketball Player Justin Glenn.

"I learned how to care about something so much while also maintaining composure, restraint and wisdom. Coach helped me grow into a professional, a husband and a father that is truly in control of my emotions rather than allowing emotions to control me."

2010 Men's Basketball Player Kenny Park

"Playing for Condra was a great experience. I learned how to have fun with life and with the sport of basketball. I learned that we are going to deal with adversity, but we get to consciously choose to respond positively to it."

2018 Men's Basketball Player Gabe Awbrey

Baseball is a tough sport and in Kansas it can be tougher, mainly due to the weather. However, the young men Manhattan Christian College Baseball team made a very strong showing. They worked hard and without facilities of our own that hard work gets harder. The baseball team never complained, just put their minds to it and got the work done. Through it all the team represented Manhattan Christian College well.

The men of the Manhattan Christian College baseball team spent many long days at the ball park. Some days were better than others and some even provided wins for the team. Each day brought these young men closer to mission of the college. They were educated, equipped and enriched as Christian leaders while playing a sport that they loved. They life lessons and friendship made on the diamond will definitely stay with them lifetime.

COMMENCEMENT

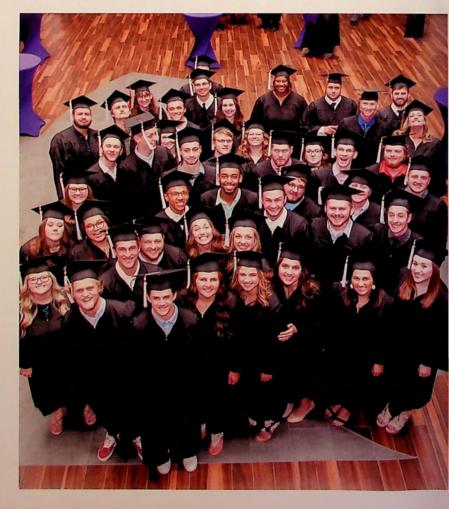

Years of work, writing, test taking and projects is all celebrated on one day called commencement. It is a day to celebrate these students accomplishments and to continue to dream about what may lie ahead for them in the future. The students at Manhattan Christian College are some of the best and brightest in the country and commencement is definitely a day to celebrate!

There is an excitement on campus during this day that rivals that of the day that they arrived on campus. This is the day that marks when they are moving on to other adventures. Families and friends are in town and get to see a small glimpse of what these students have experienced for several years. While it hard for faculty and staff to see these students move on it is truly a joyous day!

Commencement is like most events at Manhattan Christian College, it is surrounded in prayer, worship and some words of wisdom from God's Word. After the formal ceremony most students spend some time taking photos with classmates, family members, faculty and staff. They then head out to celebrate with family meals, open houses or any way to celebrate that you could think of.
